Dear Mr. VandenBurg,

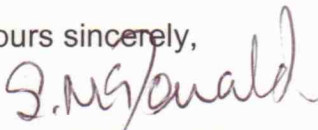

Re: [REDACTED]

Thank you for your letter of today's date. I apologise if I did not inform you of the result of the above case – normally I try to notify all interested parties of the outcome.

[REDACTED] was convicted of two offences of theft and two of administering noxious substances with intent to commit indictable offences; she was sentenced to a total of five years' imprisonment. This sentence was subsequently upheld on appeal at the Court of Appeal.

I recall well the help you gave and the timely way in which you dealt with our queries; I would be happy to provide a reference for the purposes as mentioned in your letter. Often there are pro-forma references in such directories so please do not hesitate to contact me if you would like me to complete one.

Yours sincerely,

Stuart McDonald
